Streets Ministries desired to establish a presence in the Graham Heights community by providing the neighborhood's youth with a safe place to gather after school. Fleming Architects partnered with Streets Ministries to build their second location, modeled after the original downtown facility. The new building houses a gymnasium with 2 full size TSSAA regulation size basketball courts, a video game room that only allows family friendly games, a large club room where students can play games and participate in skits that have messages related to real life situations, a computer lab where homework assistance is offered, and Bible study classes where the students can begin and develop their relationship with God. The facility also contains an office suite for staff, a kitchenette where catered lunches are often served to the students, and an outdoor plaza for assemblies.

“Fleming Architects designed the perfect building for serving our youth. The building is functional and durable while still maintaining a beauty and comfort that is inviting to teenagers and adults”
